10 Kinds Of Blog Posts You Can Create In 10 Minutes

Introduction

No matter what kind of business you run online, there's a good chance you have a blog. And if you have a blog, then you need a lot of content.

But here's the problem...

It takes a lot of time to create that content. If you outsource it, then it's going to take a lot of money. Either way, creating content is a big investment.

Until now...

If you think you can't create great content fast, think again. That's because you're about to discover 10 types of blog posts you can create in 10 minutes or less. Take a look...

1. Create Articles Out Of PLR

Sometimes you might purchase PLR (private label rights) articles that you can minimally tweak and post right to your blog. In other cases, you might take excerpts out of PLR reports or ebooks, and then post these excerpts on your blog. Either way, it takes just minutes to create something unique and post it for your readers.

Here are some other tips for using PLR to create content:

- Use the transcripts from a PLR video to create an article for your blog. These transcripts may be included with the package, or you can create your own.

TIP: This is particularly easy if the video includes slides, as you can simply create your article from the content of the slides.
